

Call 2026 - Regulations Emmanuel van der Schueren (EvdS) scholarships

General regulations Emmanuel van der Schueren (EvdS) scholarship

Art1. Kom op tegen Kanker strives to fulfil its mission by funding scientific prevention, psychosocial, translational and clinical research that contributes to the prevention and/or early detection of cancer (prevention), to mitigating the effects of cancer (psychosocial) or to a better diagnosis or treatment of cancer in applied research (translational and clinical).

Art2. The scholarships are intended for Belgian and international researchers conducting doctoral research at a Flemish university. 'Flemish university' is understood to mean any institution recognised as such in the Decree of 4 April 2003 concerning the restructuring of higher education in Flemish-speaking Belgium (section 3, art. 4).¹

Art3. For ethical issues regarding the participation of human and/or animal subjects, researchers should seek the advice of their local ethics committees.

Researchers must strictly observe the applicable legal regulations and ethical rules relating to research in human subjects. This also applies to research requiring the use of laboratory animals.

In performing their scientific activities, researchers must observe the code of conduct documented in the Ethical Code for Scientific Research in Belgium (2009: <http://www.fmre-> gske.be/pdf/ethcode_nl.pdf). The researchers undertake to conduct their research conscientiously and independently and to publish the results truthfully.

Art4. Applications should be submitted via the website on or before the stated deadline (<http://expro.komoptegenkanker.be>) using the standard application form.

Art5. Unless stipulated otherwise in the specific regulations, the scholarship is solely intended as income for the awardee and can only be used to cover the cost of his/her salary. Overhead costs, avoidable VAT, operating costs and other costs associated with the research project or its execution are not covered by the scholarship.

By signing the application form the promotor and the institution declare that at the moment of applying no funding from other sources was available for the personnel costs mentioned in the application.

In the case of potentially overlapping funding, your application may be shared with other funders.

If salary costs have already been provided and allocated for the candidate/awardee through project funding by Kom op tegen Kanker, the candidate/awardee is not eligible for an EvdS grant that overlaps in duration with the allocated salary costs through the project funding.

Art6. Unless stipulated otherwise in the specific regulations, the scholarship will be paid to the scientific institution of the awardee and his/her PhD promotor in accordance with the payment methods specified in the special provisions in the agreement.

Art7. If for the eligibility of the application a maximum seniority condition applies to the candidate, this will, in the case of career breaks due to maternity or parental leave, be increased by one year per child.

For career breaks due to maternity or parental leave in the course of the scholarship, the duration of the scholarship will be extended by the same length of time (in days) as the career break. In financial terms, these career breaks are subject to the general rules of the research institution applicable to the staff regulations under which the candidate falls.

For other types of career break (e.g. prolonged stay abroad, long-term sickness) the general rules of the research institution apply. Questions about deviations, career breaks and any other questions arising during the scholarship should be sent to Kom op tegen Kanker VZW for written approval at: financiering@komoptegenkanker.be.

Art8. At the end of the scholarship period, the candidate undertakes to submit to Kom op tegen Kanker VZW a report signed for approval by his/her PhD promotor. This report shall contain at least an activity report, a financial report, compiled and signed by the finance department of the institution and stating the actual salary received by the candidate, a copy of the employment contract confirming that the candidate was employed by the institution for the entire duration of the scholarship. If the candidate's actual salary is lower than the scholarship awarded, the difference shall immediately be repaid.

Art9. If during the scholarship funding was received from other source(s) for the research subject to the scholarship, the amount corresponding with the period of overlap shall immediately be repaid to Kom op tegen Kanker VZW.

Art10. The candidate undertakes to reference the support provided by Kom op tegen Kanker in all publications relating to the research subject to the scholarship. The candidate shall also send an electronic copy of the accepted publication(s) to Kom op tegen Kanker.

Art11. The candidate is willing to present the results of the research subject to the scholarship during a seminar organised by or in close collaboration with Kom op tegen Kanker.

Art12. The applications will be assessed, based on the subject of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical), by the corresponding expert committee of Kom op tegen Kanker. The expert committees advise the board of directors of Kom op tegen Kanker VZW; the board of directors allocates the scholarships.

Art13. The scholarship is only officially awarded after a contract has been signed between Kom op tegen Kanker VZW, the PhD promotor and the representative of the university.

Specific regulations Emmanuel van der Schueren (EvdS) starter scholarship

1. Goal

The goal is to offer researchers the opportunity (with a one-year scholarship) to conduct patient oriented cancer research (psychosocial – translational or clinical) or citizen oriented prevention research (prevention) with a view to obtaining a research doctorate (PhD).

2. Applications

2.1 Who can apply?

The candidate

The candidate must be linked to a Flemish university as a researcher. If the research takes place in collaboration with a research institution (other than a Flemish university), the scholarship should be conducted under the guidance and responsibility of a Flemish university.

The candidate must be yet to embark on a doctoral research project. This means that the candidate will only be eligible for the starter scholarship during the first five years after obtaining his/her master's degree, calculated on the standard commencement date of the scholarship (1 November). If the candidate has more than one master's degree, this rule only applies to the degree in the same field of study as the proposed doctorate. Moreover, the candidate must not have conducted research relating to the project subject to the scholarship application for more than 12 months prior to the deadline for submission of the application.

A candidate may apply for an EvdS starter scholarship a maximum of two times, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical).

If a candidate has previously been awarded the scholarship, he/she may not submit a subsequent application for an EvdS scholarship, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application.

The candidate must have submitted an eligible application via the regular submission channels (FWO (Scientific Research Fund) and equivalents), but without being awarded any funding. Eligible applications for either a scholarship or research project may be submitted, on the condition that in the eligible application the candidate is expressly listed as PhD student. Moreover, the eligible application must have been submitted in the current academic year (1 October – deadline applications EvdS call) or the (negative) outcome of the eligible application must have been issued during the current academic year (1 October – 30 September). Previous applications for funding at Kom op tegen Kanker do not qualify to meet this requirement.

PhD (co)-promotor

The PhD promotor bears end responsibility for the project subject to the scholarship application, for the allocated budget, for achieving the objectives and for the relevant reports. He/she acts as contact person vis-à-vis Kom op tegen Kanker and has a coordinating role, in consultation with any co-promoters.

The PhD promotor meets the internal conditions formulated by the institution to act as a promotor of a doctoral student.

Each year, a PhD promotor can only supervise two candidates for an EvdS scholarship: one candidate for a starter scholarship and one candidate for a completer scholarship, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical).

All co-promoters must be researchers at least at post-doctoral level. The co-promoters must be linked to a Flemish university, a Flemish research institution or a Flemish academic hospital.

An individual can act as co-promotor for multiple candidates. The role of PhD promotor and co-promotor can be combined.

2.2 What can be applied for?

Type of research

Prevention, as well as psychosocial, translational and clinical research that contributes to the prevention and/or early detection of cancer (prevention), mitigating the effects of cancer (psychosocial) or to a better diagnosis or treatment of cancer in applied research (translational and clinical) is eligible for this call.

Fundamental research will not be eligible for this call.

The full definition of the EvdS call can be found on our website: Emmanuel van der Schueren doctoraatsbeurzen | Kom op tegen Kanker.

Duration

In principle, the scholarship is allocated for the period between 1 November and 31 October subsequent to its being awarded. At the request of the candidate, the start date of the scholarship can be deferred for a maximum of three months, i.e. to 31 January of the calendar year subsequent to the scholarship being awarded.

Budget

The scholarship amount for a starter scholarship is maximum €58,000 for an employment of 100%. For an employment at a lower percentage, the maximum scholarship amount will be equalized pro rata.

The scholarship can only be used to cover the salary of the awardee at predoctoral level and may under no circumstances be used for operating costs or other costs associated with the research project.

Half of the scholarship will be paid at the time it is awarded and the other half six months later, subject to a favourable evaluation.

2.3 When and how can the application be submitted?

The scholarship can be applied for as soon as the call for applications is published on the Kom op tegen Kanker website; applications remain open until the submission deadline indicated on the website. In case of doubt regarding the date and time of submission, the date and time of the final digital submission shall apply.

The application must be submitted on or before the deadline via the website (<http://expro.komoptegenkanker.be>) using the standard application form.

2.4 Assessment procedure

Eligibility

The application will first be assessed for eligibility. If all the formal criteria described above and in the application form are met, the application will be eligible for evaluation.

Evaluation

- Fit-to-call assessment based on the definition of the call
- The researcher & research institution (1 point)
 - Research competency and potential
 - Quality of supervision and research group (including track record of the PhD promotor)
- Importance/value of the EvdS scholarship to the research group (2 points)
- The research project (3 points)
 - Chosen methodology in regards to the proposed milestones of the project
 - Feasibility of the project
- Patient/Citizen-centricity and relevance of the project to patients and citizens (4 points)

Procedure

The applications will be assessed, based on the subject of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical), by the corresponding expert committee of Kom op tegen Kanker. The expert committees advise the board of directors of Kom op tegen Kanker VZW; the board of directors allocates the scholarships.

Feedback

After the board of directors has awarded the scholarships, all candidates will be personally informed of the outcome of their application, by email.

For applications found to be ineligible, the candidates in question will be informed of the ineligibility and the reasons for this.

For applications found to be eligible but not awarded a scholarship, feedback will be provided in the form of the ranking of the application after evaluation by the corresponding committee.

3. Project progress and reports

After the scholarship has been awarded, a contract will be concluded between Kom op tegen Kanker VZW, the awardee, the PhD promotor and the university.

Under the contract, the PhD promotor is required to submit an interim report after six months, in which he/she confirms that the project is progressing satisfactorily. Only after the interim report has been approved will the second instalment of the scholarship be paid.

The contract also requires the awardee to submit a final report after one year, i.e. at the conclusion of the scholarship. This report must be signed by the PhD promotor and shall comprise at least a content-related report and a financial report, compiled and signed by the finance department of the institution. This financial report must include a copy of the employment contract between the awardee and the institution, confirming that the awardee was employed by the institution for the entire duration of the scholarship, and a financial report confirming that there was no overlap with other funding sources for the duration of the scholarship (see articles 8 and 9 of the General regulations).

Specific regulations Emmanuel van der Schueren (EvdS) completer scholarship

1. Goal

The goal is to offer researchers undertaking doctoral research the opportunity to complete their patient/citizen oriented research (prevention, psychosocial, translational or clinical) and obtain their PhD, with a scholarship of six months or one year.

2. Applications

2.1 Who can apply?

The candidate

The candidate must be linked to a Flemish university as a researcher. If the research takes place in collaboration with a university of applied sciences (hogeschool), it will be conducted under the guidance and responsibility of a Flemish university.

The candidate must complete his/her doctoral research project and the accompanying PhD thesis. This means that, on the standard commencement date of the scholarship (1 November), the candidate has been employed by the university for three years for the execution of the doctoral research project, that is mentioned as the topic of the application. By submitting an application for an EvdS completer scholarship, the candidate commits to completing his/her doctoral research project and the accompanying PhD thesis within the year. This means that a candidate can only submit an application for an EvdS completer scholarship once, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical).

Candidates who have previously been awarded an EvdS starter scholarship are not eligible to apply for an EvdS completer scholarship, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application.

PhD (co)-promotor

The PhD promotor bears end responsibility for the project subject to the scholarship application, for the allocated budget, for achieving the objectives and for the relevant reports. He/she acts as contact person vis-à-vis Kom op tegen Kanker and has a coordinating role, in consultation with any co-promotors.

The PhD promotor meets the internal conditions formulated by the institution to act as a promotor of a doctoral student.

Each year, a PhD promotor can only supervise two candidates for an EvdS scholarship: one candidate for a starter scholarship and one candidate for a completer scholarship, regardless of the research topic/domain of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical).

All co-promotors must be researchers at least at post-doctoral level. The co-promotors must be linked to a Flemish university, a Flemish research institution or a Flemish academic hospital.

An individual can act as co-promotor for multiple candidates. The role of PhD promotor and co-promotor can be combined.

2.2 What can be applied for?

Type of research

Prevention, as well as psychosocial, translational and clinical research that contributes to the prevention and/or early detection of cancer (prevention), mitigating the effects of cancer (psychosocial) or to a better diagnosis or treatment of cancer in applied research (translational and clinical) is eligible for this call.

Fundamental research will not be eligible for this call.

The full definition of the EvdS call can be found on our website: Emmanuel van der Schueren doctoraatsbeurzen | Kom op tegen Kanker.

Duration

A scholarship can be awarded for maximum 6 or 12 months. In principle, the commencement date of the scholarship is 1 November. At the request of the candidate, the start date of the scholarship can be deferred for a maximum of three months, i.e. to 31 January of the calendar year subsequent to the scholarship being awarded. In principle, the scholarship ends when the candidate is awarded his/her PhD. Divergence from this is possible, subject to the approval of the corresponding expert committee (which can be requested via financiering@komoptegenkanker.be).

Budget

The scholarship amount for a completer scholarship is maximum €87,000 for an employment of 100% for 12 months, €43,500 for an employment of 100% for 6 months. For an employment at a lower percentage, the maximum scholarship amount will be equalized pro rata.

The scholarship can only be used to cover the salary of the awardee at predoctoral level and may under no circumstances be used for operating costs or other costs associated with the research project.

Half of the scholarship will be paid at the time it is awarded and the remaining amount halfway through the scholarship period, subject to a favourable evaluation.

2.3 When and how can the application be submitted?

The scholarship can be applied for as soon as the call for applications is published on the Kom op tegen Kanker website; applications remain open until the submission deadline indicated on the website. In case of doubt regarding the date and time of submission, the date and time of the final digital submission shall apply.

The application must be submitted on or before the deadline via the website (<http://expro.komoptegenkanker.be>) using the standard application form.

2.4 Assessment procedure

Eligibility

The application will first be assessed for eligibility. If all the formal criteria described above and in the application form are met, the application will be eligible for evaluation.

Evaluation

- Fit-to-call assessment based on the definition of the call

- The researcher & research institution (1 point)
 - Research competency and potential
 - Quality of supervision and research group (including track record of the PhD promotor)
- Requirement of an additional 6-12 months to complete the project (2 points)
- The research project (3 points)
 - Chosen methodology in regards to the proposed milestones of the project
 - Feasibility of the project
- Patient/Citizen-centricity and relevance of the project to patients and citizens (4 points)

Procedure

The applications will be assessed, based on the subject of the application (prevention – psychosocial – translational – clinical), by the corresponding expert committee of Kom op tegen Kanker. The expert committees advise the board of directors of Kom op tegen Kanker VZW; the board of directors allocates the scholarships.

Feedback

After the board of directors has awarded the scholarships, all candidates will be personally informed of the outcome of their application, by email.

For applications found to be ineligible, the candidates in question will be informed of the ineligibility and the reasons for this.

For applications found to be eligible but not awarded a scholarship, feedback will be provided in the form of the ranking of the application after evaluation by the corresponding committee.

3. Project progress and reports

After the scholarship has been awarded, a contract will be concluded between Kom op tegen Kanker VZW, the awardee, the PhD promotor and the university.

Under the contract, the PhD promotor is required to submit an interim report after six months (after three months for a scholarship of 6 months), in which he/she confirms that the project is progressing satisfactorily. Only after the interim report has been approved will the second instalment of the scholarship be paid.

The contract also requires the awardee to submit a final report at the conclusion of the scholarship. This report must be signed by the PhD promotor and shall comprise a content-related report and a financial report, compiled and signed by the finance department of the institution. This financial report must include a copy of the employment contract between the awardee and the institution, confirming that the awardee was employed by the institution for the entire duration of the scholarship, and a financial report confirming that there was no overlap with other funding sources for the duration of the scholarship (see articles 8 and 9 of the General regulations).
